WHAT'S NEW

Using our proprietary algorithm, we've identified ingredient trends that are exhibiting two distinct behaviors: emerging and safe bets. Our goal is to help you make more forward-looking decisions by giving you the ability to capitalize on undiscovered ingredients rather than just jumping on the bandwagon. Each category represents not only where the trend is in its lifecycle, but also where it is heading. This will make it easier to invest in the right trends at the right time for your business.

INTRODUCTION / TOP 10 INGREDIENTS

The pandemic pushed millions to seek out supplements that support immunity and ultimately brought about lasting change in the way consumers think about safeguarding their health. While mental health matters across demographics, different generations are in search of supplements that address specific concerns. Consumers, especially Millennials, are searching for natural ways to increase mental stamina and reduce the impact of stress, driving demand for CBD. A high volume trend, there are 344K average weekly searches for CBD, +11% to last year.

In the #1 spot, chlorophyll has garnered mass attention thanks to its viral takeoff on TikTok. There are 362K average weekly searches for the 'wonder supplement,' +317% to last year. So, is chlorophyll the cure-all TikTok touts it to be? Unfortunately, the answer is unclear. According to the available data, medical professionals still have a lot to learn before it can be recommended—despite what TikTok users want you to believe.

Probiotics and postbiotics, in ingestible and topical form, emerge as ingredients to watch. A safe bet, there are 2K average weekly searches for postbiotics, +228% to last year. The microbiome-boosting ingredient is expected to continue growing over the next year with 70% confidence.

01 CHLOROPHYLL

[klaw-ruh-fil]

Taking over TikTok as the latest viral wellness trend, chlorophyll is the pigment that gives plants their green color. Chlorophyll in supplement or liquid form contains chlorophyllin, a semisynthetic, water-soluble version of the ingredient, which supports immune system function and enhances the liver's natural ability to remove toxins and waste from the body. Its antimicrobial powers reduce swelling and can also be used as a topical remedy for wrinkles, acne, and wounds.

POSTBIOTIC 02

[powst-bai-aa-tuhk]

Let us break it down for you—prebiotics are the “food,” probiotics are the microorganisms, and postbiotics are the results of probiotics consuming that “food.” When applied topically, postbiotics target inflammation, protect against pollution, and promote the skin microbiome.

BAKUCHIOL 04

[buh-koo-chee-all]

A plant-based alternative to retinol, bakuchiol, pronounced “buh-koo-chee-all” is an antioxidant found in the seeds of the psoralea corylifolia plant. The naturally-occurring pale purple ingredient gives formulas a unique purple hue. Like retinol, it works to increase cellular turnover, stimulate collagen production, and diminish photodamage. Unlike retinol, the plant is gentle and soothing to the skin, rather than sensitizing, and it can be used safely during pregnancy.

VOLCANIC ASH 06

[vaal-ka-nuhk æ-sh]

Rich in antibacterial minerals, volcanic ash is commonly used in “purifying” or “detoxifying” cleansers and masks, as it extracts pollutants, sebum, and dirt from pores. It also contains exfoliating properties to draw out even more impurities for a smoother and brighter complexion. Ideal for those prone to acne or excess oil production.

07 MAKGEOLLI

[mahk-oh-lee]

Makgeolli is a brewed rice wine, made of rice, water and nuruk, which is a fermentation starter. The high quality natural rice extract can be used topically to nourish the skin and help prevent the formation of age spots while lightening existing ones. When ingested, one bottle of makgeolli contains as many probiotics as 100 cups of yogurt and is full of amino acids and vitamin B which firm and brighten the skin.

too-luhp}

Tulips contain high levels of growth factors that allow the flower to continue growing after its been picked.

Tulips contain a plant hormone called auxin, which is derived from the amino acid tryptophan; the combination promotes regeneration used for the repair and growth of tissues throughout the body. Being natural humectants, they can retain and hold their weight in water, and therefore are used as powerful moisturizers.

PROBIOTIC 10

[prow-bai-aa-tuhk]

Containing live cultures of bacteria, probiotics are used to promote positive bacterial balance in the skin's pH. Probiotics induce the production of healthy ceramides, which create a barrier to protect the skin from environmental damage and irritation, and lock in moisture, preventing dry skin and eczema. Taken as supplements, probiotics improve gut health, immune response, and healing of the skin, brain and gut network.
